- EXPLICACION DEL PROYECTO

Este proyecto consiste en una aplicación desarrollada con React cuyo objetivo es mostrar información de países utilizando la API pública REST Countries. La aplicación demuestra cómo consumir datos desde un servicio externo y presentarlos en una interfaz ordenada usando componentes de Bootstrap para mejorar el diseño.

Al iniciar la aplicación, se utiliza el hook `useEffect` para ejecutar una petición `fetch` a la API. Esta petición solicita datos específicos de cada país, como su nombre, bandera, capital, población, idiomas y monedas. Una vez que la información llega, se almacena en el estado del componente mediante `useState`, lo que permite que la interfaz se actualice automáticamente con los datos obtenidos.

Para la presentación de la información se utiliza una tabla de Bootstrap, lo que facilita que los datos se visualicen de forma limpia, responsive y profesional sin necesidad de código CSS adicional. Cada fila de la tabla representa un país y muestra:

- La bandera oficial mediante una imagen.
- El nombre común y el nombre oficial del país.
- La capital principal.
- La cantidad de población.
- Las monedas utilizadas.
- Los idiomas hablados.

Además, mientras se realiza la descarga de los datos desde la API, la aplicación muestra un mensaje de “Cargando...”, lo cual mejora la experiencia del usuario al indicar que el contenido está en proceso de obtenerse.

Este proyecto es útil para comprender conceptos importantes de React como el manejo de estados, efectos, renderizado dinámico con `.map()`, y también cómo integrar librerías externas como Bootstrap para dar estilo a los componentes. En resumen, es una aplicación sencilla pero completa que integra consumo de API, actualización automática de la interfaz y uso de componentes visuales profesionales.
